

A Yes, came on down. I was not to Brown. I was right close to Magee. Then I was fishing there and I heard--I could not see who said this--heard them say, "Well, Arthur Applegate has caught an awful big blue fish and Henry Stevens weighed it to see how much it would weigh."

Q This is what you heard someone say? A. Yes. Well, anyhow at that time Arthur came along and he had two fish, carrying two fish, and he said, "Well, I have got the biggest fish of the season. Henry Stevens weighed it."

Q Did he say this to you? A. Yes.

Q You talked with him about it? A. Yes.

Q Where were you when he met you and talked with you?

Q Between Magee and Brown Avenue? A. Well, right close to Magee Avenue up there, see, and may have been a little bit north, a little bit south. Well, I said, "You have had better luck than I have for I have not had any." After I saw him I could not say whether he went home, but anyhow I went on down and I threw in. Mr. Eger was on the right. Mr. Stevens was fishing right there.

Q On the right facing the beach you mean? A. Yes, facing the beach. I was nearer Brown at that time. Mr. Stevens was fishing right up here, sitting on a box with a line in the water. I threw in and it was pretty dark then. I
